

Your Top Leaders Need A Coach As Experienced As They Are.

Our elite team of C-level coaches become the confidants your leaders seek for open reflection and decision-making.

Leaders at the top of the company face different demands on the job than the senior executives who report to them. They require a coaching approach designed to both the individual leader and the unique challenges of the C-level role – administered by top-tier coaches who are as adept as the executives they coach. Robert Gregory Partners incorporates all of this in specialized C-Suite coaching services that focus on helping your top executives achieve greatness.

Designed to the Leader

Every C-level leader is an individual, with a unique set of experiences, perceptions and aspirations. Our C-Suite coaching experts take a highly customized approach to each client to provide exactly what that leader needs to excel in a critical role.

Expertise in the C-Suite

We have assembled an elite team of highly skilled coaches who know their way around the C-Suite. They unite strong business sense with a deep understanding of what C-level leaders face. They cap their deep experience in coaching C-level leaders with certification in the Robert Gregory Partners C-Suite coaching methodology.

The Essential Structure

Our C-suite coaching program is centered around the executive's needs and schedule. The engagement typically includes an initial one-year period, which the executive or sponsor team can opt to extend. Generally, the coach and leader meet face to face each month, with supplemental ad hoc telephone conversations at the leader's request.

Conversation and Outcomes

The primary tool in C-Suite coaching is open dialogue between the coach and leader, typically around a range of corner-office topics. In most C-suite environments, top leaders lack a neutral, honest sounding board. Our coach becomes the impartial, reliant – and knowledgeable – partner your leader needs to reflect and deliberate best moves.
